INTRODUCTION

Welcome to the Stunning Costa Rican Central Pacific Coast

Spectacular natural beauty, peaceful atmosphere and friendly people attract visitors from all over the world to Costa Rica.

Costa Rica's central pacific coast is known for its varied terrain, spectacular weather and welcoming atmosphere.

You'll find stunning beaches, lazy rivers, cool rain forests and mountainous, active volcanoes, all within a short distance from each other. Activities ranging from hiking, canopy tours and white water rafting through wildlife filled national parks to surfing, snorkeling, scuba diving and world class sport fishing are at your doorstep.

The odds of seeing wildlife are greater in Costa Rica than anywhere else in the world. Costa Rica is the world leader in terms of protected areas, with 27% of its land mass designated as national parks or reserves.

A COUNTRY DEDICATED TO PEACE

Costa Rica is known for its natural beauty, friendly people and peaceful nature.

It was the very first country to formally abolish military forces. The constitution has forbidden a standing military since 1949. And unlike many of its Central American neighbors, Costa Rica has not had a civil war since.

The capital of San Jose is also the home of the Inter-American Court of Human Rights which serves to uphold and promote basic rights and freedoms in the Americas, and the United Nation's University for Peace.

Costa Rica's Central Pacific Coast offers unequalled beauty, with friendly people, a high standard of living and an exciting blend of local and foreign cultures that truly make it the jewel of Central America.
